

Dr. İskender IŞIK is a Professor and Head of Department of Metallurgical and Material Engineering of Kütahya Dumlupınar University. He has received his BSc degree from Black Sea Technical University, MSc degree from Anadolu University and PhD degree from University of Texas at El Paso. Mr. Işık's main interests are traditional ceramics, çini (traditional artistic ceramics), roofing tile and brick, industrial raw materials, insulator materials, glass-cement-ceramic raw materials, use of waste materials, clay and clay minerals. At home and abroad, Prof. Işık has many published presentations and scientific papers as sole or co-author. As editor or co editor, he has edited three proceeding books two of which are international. His current activities include heat insulators and Kütahya çini art.